

There was no food for the foxes that night. Mr Fox crept up the dark tunnel to the mouth of his hole.

The noise he heard now was the most frightening noise a fox can ever hear. It was the scraping of shovels.